Shawnee State University's Student Programming Board sponsored a Drunk Driving Simulator providing for students a virtual experience on the dangers of impaired driving on Thursday, Jan. 24 in the University Center.

The simulator was part of the "Save a Life" tour that included showing videos of people who have lost their lives or had been severely injured and scarred due to drunk driving for students to see the dangers of drinking and driving.

Ryan Appell "drove" the simulator while it gradually impaired his ability to keep control of the car and prevent it from crashing. In the photo, students watch Appell as he tries driving on the simulator.
